

Online Post-Primary Literacy Collaborative: Promoting and Supporting Oral Language Development Across the Post-Primary Curriculum

Integrating Oral Language Instruction and Assessment into Lessons

PDST Collaboratives offer teachers the time and space to come together and work collaboratively. They provide an opportunity to discuss ideas or issues arising from participants' experiences in the classroom.

This Online Collaborative will explore

- the value and importance of oral language development
- how teachers can explicitly plan for oral language development within their subject
- methodologies and strategies that support the oral language development of all learners, including EAL learners and those with additional needs, across all subjects

This Online Collaborative will provide participants with an opportunity to discuss and share

- their experiences of promoting and supporting oral language development
- methodologies and strategies that support oral language development

These Online Collaboratives are suitable for all Senior Cycle teachers, literacy link teachers, literacy teams and management. These Online Collaboratives are available to all registered teachers.
